Big Circulation Drive Drawing to Close Many Ladies Possible Possessors of Car

As big drive draws to close the race is so close that to pick a winner would be impossible.—Reserve Votes must be in before 11 o'clock Saturday night.—Local Judges to close campaign, so fairness is assured to all.

Last Big Offer of drive on Now

100,000 extra Votes for each one year New Subscription will be given this week.—Second Paid secure all Votes first one received plus 100,000.—Make the last week of the big drive a success.—Last showing of Vote Standing before final count is given to-day.—Our thanks are due to the many ladies who have worked so hard to make the drive the success it has been.

MR. ROY WHITE
Mgr. of the Standard Bank

of the Bank of Montreal staff.

This is the final week of the Express Great Circulation Drive. The campaign has been a splendid success and the awarding of the many valuable prizes has been justified by the large number of prominent ladies who have lent their efforts toward its success. The contestants for the prizes numbered into the hundreds and the race has indeed been a close one, so close in fact, that at this time it is almost impossible to pick the winners for the best prizes.

All reserve vote certificates and last minute paid subscriptions must be in the office and placed in the Ballot Box ON TIME. The campaign will positively close at 11 o'clock, Saturday night, January 20th. Subscriptions can be paid any time during the week and right up to closing time.

A special feature of the drive to insure all fairness in the awarding of the prizes, will be the selection of the judges who will take charge of the ballot box, and count the votes, awarding the prizes to the contestants having the highest votes.

The last big offer of the drive is for new and second paid subscriptions. One or more new subscription paid in before the close will mean 100,000 extra Votes for each one year, also there will be issued 100,000 extra votes for each one year new subscription that you or your friends have turned in during the previous weeks of the drive.

Second paid subscriptions will secure all the votes that the first paid received, plus 100,000 for each additional year paid. That is, we mean by a "Second Paid" subscription, that if a subscription had been formerly paid to you or any other contestant and you could secure payment on same, you would be entitled to the additional high Take your last week and pass all previous weeks and be in front at the finish. The race has been a very even one and with a few subscriptions this final week you could easily change your standing and be the highest at the close.

The Napanee Express wish to thank the many ladies for the many good words spoken on behalf of the paper and for the splendid efforts in promoting a greater circulation.

The vote standing is published to-day for the last time until the judges have made their awards.

SIR ALLAN AYLESWORTH IS NAMED AS SENATOR

FORMER MINISTER OF JUSTICE IN LAURIER CABINET RETURNS TO OTTAWA

Ottawa, Jan. 9.—Another notable link between the Laurier regime and the King Administration was forged to-day with the appointment of Sir Allan Aylesworth, of Toronto, to the vacancy in the Senate caused by the death a few weeks ago of Hon. Wm. Proudfoot. Coincidental with the choice of the Minister of Justice in Sir Wilfrid's last Cabinet came as a complete surprise to those outside the Government, this name never having been mentioned in connection with the appointment, even by many of those who are usually on the "inside track."

HIS STAND ON ALASKA BOUNDARY.

Sir Allan Aylesworth succeeded Sir Charles Fitzpatrick to the position of Minister of Justice, the latter going to the Supreme Court. Sir Allan became most widely known and respected in the Dominion for the courageous role he played in the Alaska boundary award, and the sharp differences that developed between him and Lord Alverstone made lively reading at the time. Then the new Senator had much to do with the framing and passing of the Lord's Day Act which according to the then Secretary of the Alliance, gave Sabbath rest to an additional 50,000 Canadians. He took a prominent part in the insurance inquiry in the House of Commons, and he frequently had clashes with Sir George Foster, now a colleague in the upper Chamber.

WILL REVIVE WARM FRIENDSHIPS.

In 1906 aural trouble developed, and Sir Allan was compelled to curtail his public activities, and he was finally respected, in the election of 1911, for his complete retirement from political life, as he declined to be a candidate in his constituency of North York, his place being taken by the late T. C. Robinette. Sir Allan is an intimate friend of Premier King, and it will be a source of satisfaction for him to be able to renew kindly associations with Hon. W. S. Fielding, Hon. Geo. P. Graham, Hon. Jacques Bureau and Senator Dandurand—all old Cabinet colleagues—and also, in the Chamber to which he has been appointed with Senator Pardee, former Chief Liberal Whip, and many others.

To-day's appointment closes up all the gaps in the two Houses, and the second session of Canada's fourteenth Parliament will open without a single vacant seat.

AN ACQUISITION TO PARLIAMENT.

News of the appointment of Sir Allan Bristol Aylesworth, K.C., to the Senate will be received with approbation by his many friends from coast to coast. Possibly there is not a lawyer in the whole of Canada who knows as this the new Senator. In addition to his distinguished career at the Bar, Sir Allan Aylesworth is familiar with legislative work at Ottawa. As far back as 1904 he presented himself as Liberal candidate for Durham, but was beaten by H. A. Ward, a Conservative, by 149 votes. Next year, in a by-election, he won North York by 446, and in the general elections of 1908 Sir Allan was again victorious by 306 votes. This riding was formery represented by Sir Mm. Mulock, and is the constituency of Premier King to-day. Soon after his election Sir Allan was made Postmaster-General in the Leurier Government, but he held the portfolio scarcely a year, when he accepted cabinet office to his liking as Minister of Justice. In 1906 he was Chairman of the special House Committee on the Canadian Election Laws. Sir Allan did not contest a riding in 1911, when Laurier was defeated.

RAPID RISE TO LEGAL FAME.

The new Senator comes of United Empire Loyalist forbears, and was born in Kingston County on November 27, 1854. In 1874 he was Prince of Wales prizeman at the University of Toronto, was called in 1878, a King's Counsel in 1889, and a Bencher of the Upper Canada Law Society in 1901, indicative of his rapid advance in his profession. He appeared on numerous occasions before the Judicial Committee of the Privy Council. In 1903 Sir Allan was appointed a member of the Alaska Boundary Tribunal, and was one of those who refused to sign the report. In 1910 he represented Canada and Britain before The Hague Tribunal in the fisheries reference, and next year was with Mr. Jusice Brodeur at the Washington conference on fisheries following The Hague Tribunal award. It was as a reward for his work at The Hague that he received the K.C.M.G.

A STAUNCH REFORMER.

Morgan's "Canadian Men and Women of the Time" has this reference to Sir Allan : "Born a Reformer and has remained one ; a farmer's son, and himself worked faithfully on a farm till he was 21 ; is opposed to the whole pension system to public servants and Members of the Crown ; would regard favorably the creation of an Appellate Court for the whole Empire, so that Canada would be as much of the Empire in this respect as Yorkshire or Wales."

Sir Allan is a familiar figure in downtown Toronto, but possibly a more familiar figure in one of the front-row seats at the Island ball park when the Leafs are on their way to a penant. Next to nicely balanced legal questions, Sir Allan, it is said, likes baseball.

Sir Anson is a brother of Mr. Geo. Anson Aylesworth, Newburgh, and son of the late J. B. Aylesworth.

A London Mirage.

The great drought brought to London that desert wonder, the mirage, and home-biding folk, who never will behold the Sahara or Death Valley, saw the centre of the Mall as a lake whereon passing taxis seemed to float deliciously.

THE REFUGE FROM THE STORM

OR, WHAT MUST I DO TO BE SAVED.

What are the conditions which we are required to fulfil, in order to a participation in the great salvation to be revealed at the coming of the Lord ? The gospel is the power of God unto salvation to every one that believeth, Rom. 1, 16, and again, It pleased God by the foolishness of preaching to save them that believe, 1 Cor., 1. 21.

Hence, if any man desires to be saved, the very first thing he has to do is to believe the gospel. The whole plan of salvation is found in the Acts of the Apostles, chap. 8: 12-13. The details of this plan is found in Genesis first chapter, and we part with it in the last chapter of the Revelations. Read Acts 17 ; 11, John 6; 39. "Repent and be baptized every one of you in the name of Jesus Christ, for the remission of your sins." No man could preach Christ without preaching baptism. Read Acts 8, 5. We have the simple words, "Then Philip went down to the city of Samaria and preached Christ unto them." Now read verse again same chapter. Why were they baptized if the preaching of baptism was not a part of the work of preaching Christ ? Why was not Cornelius a saved man, seeing he was devout and God-fearing, and almsgiving and a praying man ? Read Acts 10, 1-2. Read the whole chapter carefully.

Every where we go we find the doctrine of baptism wherever in the New Testament we find the gospel preached and obeyed. We may summarize the subject as follows :

"Baptism is one of the conditions of salvation." Mark 16, 16 : 16 : And he (Jesus) said unto them, "Go ye into all the world and preach the gospel to every creature. He that believeth and is baptized shall be saved ; but he that believeth not shall be condemned." Then Peter said unto them, "Repent and be baptized, every one of you for the remission of sins," Acts 2, 38. Now read verse again same chapter. These should not be baptized, seeing that they have received the Holy Spirit as well as we, and he commanded them to be baptized in the name of the Lord Jesus," Acts 10, 47-43. Jesus answered, "Verily, verily I say unto thee, except a man be born of water and of the spirit he cannot enter the kingdom of God," John 3 : 5, 6, 7.

"All believer's of the gospel were baptized." Then they that gladly received his (Peter's) word were baptized, Acts 2 ; 41. And many of the Corinthians hearing, believed and were baptized, Acts 18 ; 8 ; 8 ; 12. Philip baptized the eunuch, Acts 8 : 38. Read Acts 16 ; 15-33 ; 19 ; 5.

"Baptism is for the remission of sins." Be baptized for the remission of your sins, Acts 2: 38. Be baptized and wash away thy sins, Acts 22 ; 16. Baptism is also now save us by the answer of a good conscience, 1 Peter, 3 ; 21. Purged from his old sins, 2 Peter, 1 ; 9. The washing of water by the word, Eph. 5 ; 26.

"Baptism into Christ requires water." "See, her is water, what doth hinder me to be baptized, Acts 8 ; 36 ; 10 ; 47. John 3 ; 23.

"Baptism in water is a being buried or immersed therein." We are buried with Him by baptism into death. Planted together in the likeness of His death, Rom. 6 ; 3, 4, 5.

No one is a child of God who is not in Christ Jesus and it is by means of the one faith that such a relationship is effected. The one faith is dead without the one baptism, James 2 ; 20. There are millions are, He that believeth and is baptized. Now Paul says, "For as many of you as have been baptized into Christ have put on Christ, and if ye be Christ's, then are ye Abraham's seed, and heirs according to the promise, Gal. 3 ; 27, 28, 29.

The matter stands thus, then : No salvation out of Christ ; no way unto Christ but by belief of the gospel and baptism.

In conclusion let me recommend to the reader the earnest, persistent and systematic study of the Scriptures. Let him study the Bible by subjects, such as God, life, soul, death, resurrection, baptism and many others.

Take a little time each day for the study of some Bible truth, and you will lay up a fund of Bible knowledge in the course of one year that will surprise you.

Read Gal. 1 : 8,9 ; Rev. 22 : 18, 19.

NORTH CANADA GOLD MINES SYNDICATE

Are offering now an investment that is sound and very attractive and each investor becomes the owner pro rata of a mine already showing gold values in excess of other paying mines in the gold districts of Ontario.

For every $25.00 certificate in the Syndicate the investor will receive 500 shares of the par value of $100 each in the company that the Syndicate is soon to incorporate.

The Syndicate is purchasing outright from the Anglo-Canadian Gold Estates, Limited, through the Bank of Montreal, at Port Arthur, 5 claims which have been prospected and which show great values in gold. On claims 171-172, which contains 360 acres of gold bearing quartz, is a mins that is now down 280 feet and showing values from $40.00 to $50.00 to the ton.

As there is no speculation in the taking over of these claims and as thousands of tons of gold bearing quartz is now already blocked out and as the mine is where fully equipped for extensive mining, the Syndicate expects general subscriptions to it's ranks for the investments bid fair to repay many fold.

John Henderson Is Now a Leading Educationalist.

As an educationalist, Dr. John Henderson, M.A., LL.D., ranks amongst the foremost in Ontario. He has had a long and eminent career in the high schools of the province and has exercised a great influence in educating the young people of Ontario.

Born over seventy years ago at Selkirk, Scotland, Dr. Henderson comes of that sturdy Scottish stock that has done so much for our young country. He is a sound educator and a fearless exponent of his ideas, which are generally right, and always directed towards the best interests of the community.

Dr. Henderson came to Canada at an early age and literally grew up with the country. In those days conditions were vastly different than they are to-day. The population was small, transportation facilities were exceedingly meagre and the British North America Act had not been conceived. In the year of Confederation Dr. Henderson entered the University of Toronto, and from this seat of learning he was graduated in 1871 with the degree of B.A. The following year, 1872, he obtained his M.A.

Immediately after, John Henderson, as he was then, commenced his pedagogic career by becoming the classical master at the St. Catharines Collegiate Institute, which post he held for twelve years. Then, over twenty-five years he was the principal of the same institution, and it was there that he laid the foundation of his fame as an educationalist. Upon retiring from that position in 1903, he was presented with a silver service by the Collegiate Board, and his portrait done in oils from the pupils.

J. W. L. Forster, of Toronto, was the artist.

From 1892 to 1904 Dr Henderson represented the high school teachers on the senate of the University of Toronto. He has also held many other important positions, and is a past president of the St. Andrew's Society.

Dr. Henderson also interested himself in the public side of life as well as the educational, and held many positions of prominence in St. Catharines. His longest tenure of office, which is illustrative of his Scottish traits, was twenty-eight years.

Dr. Henderson is regarded as an authority in classics and has edited many textbooks in Latin. He collaborated with R. A. Leith and the First Latin Book and Latin Reader was the result. Later he published jointly with the late Prof. Fletcher the First Latin Book and Latin Prose, in conjunction with E. W. Hagarty he edited a dozen pamphlets on Caesar and Virgil.

Since retiring from teaching he has enjoyed a comparatively quiet life and he now makes his home in Clarkson. A short time ago he visited his native land, but the lure was too strong, and he returned to the land of his adoption. Dr. Henderson is a staunch Presbyterian and is prominent in Masonic circles.

At the last convocation his alma mater conferred on him the degree of Doctor of Laws, in recognition and appreciation of his life-long endeavors for the advancement of education throughout the province.

OUR KHAKI SETTLERS

EX-SOLDIERS REPORT FAIRLY GOOD YEAR ON FARMS.

Two Hundred More Veterans Were Established on Land During Past Season — Few Actual Failures Reported—Some Men Have Left Farms, But Repaid Advances In Full.

While regular farmers in all parts of the Dominion are having a hard time to make both ends meet, and those unfortunate enough to have mortgages against their holdings are wondering where the interest charges are to come from, soldier settlers report a fairly good year. Of course, there have been failures, as such affairs are bound to occur under any scheme of Government settlement, but in every county of Ontario even well-established farmers have been forced off the land during the past season.

Of the total amount of money due the Federal Government from soldier settlers for the present year 28.6 per cent. had been received up till November 30, and of the total number of settlers to make payments 66.2 per cent. have met them in full and 32.8 per cent. in part. Of 40 per cent. of the veterans located in all parts of Canada who had payments due the Federal authorities up till December of 1922 have responded with the best period of the year, from the live stock farmers' point of view—December and early January—still to be heard from.

In the Federal field Ontario has made the best showing. Nearly 50 per cent., or 46.2 to be strictly accurate, of the amount of money due in annual instalments, has been paid by veterans in the banner province. Saskatchewan comes next, with 37.7 per cent.; Manitoba, 27.5 per cent.; the Maritime Provinces, 26.7 per cent.; British Columbia, 26 per cent.; Quebec, 23.9 per cent., and Alberta last, with but 18.3 per cent. of the payments due being made by December 1.

In Ontario, according to F. D. Shaver, superintendent of the Soldiers' Settlement Board here, a very good year has been experienced. The number of veterans placed on the land has been increased by 197 in eleven months of 1922, making a total of 1,755 to pass through the board since the organization was established. To date the board has lost about 70 settlers, but 61 of these have repaid their loan before giving up. Thirty-three have repaid their loans in full and are still farming. "Since we started last year," states Mr. Shaver, "eight settlers have repaid their loan in full and are still farming, and seventeen have repaid and quit." The number of settlers still on the land in Ontario is placed at 1,574.

With at least 20 per cent. more in payments coming in, principally from the sale of hogs, during December, 629 of the 1,521 settlers with payments due in Ontario, according to Mr. Shaver, have already made their payments in full for this season, while 302 have paid on account, and 489 have paid nothing. This compares very favorably with last year, when up till December 30 609 of the 1,140 settlers with payments due paid in full, 301 on account and 230 not at all, and with 1920, when with prices better and crops as good as the present season, 924 of the 1,075 with payments due paid in full, 100 on account and 41 nothing at all. The figures given above include only the actual payments due, and not money received in prepayment from those who wished to wipe out their obligations before the specified time.

Up till December 14 of this year, 50.3 per cent. of the money due to the board in regular payments had been paid by Ontario soldier settlers, while 41.8 per cent. had been received up till the same time last year, and 81.2 per cent. on December 14, 1920.

For administration purposes, the province is divided into 14 districts with a supervisor over each. The numbers of settlers in each varies from 779 to 107, the smaller number being located in the southwestern Peninsula and along the north shore of Lake Erie, and the others being scattered around Fort William, Emo, Kenora in New Ontario. With the exception of the last mentioned district, where only 29.6 per cent. of the money due in annual payments to date had been paid up till December 14, all others are up very well, Simcoe, Muskoka and part of Parry Sound leading with 62.7 per cent., and all others, except the one in the extreme west of the province, between that and 42.5 per cent.

As previously mentioned, the board is still establishing settlers, 31 having been accommodated in April, 24 in June, 21 in August, etc., or approximately two hundred this year. While there are one or two individuals who are simply going on the land for a change, and will not make a success, 99 per cent. of the men taken on this year, in the opinion of Mr. Shaver, have an excellent chance of making good. Some, of course, will be lost, but these, as a rule, will not cost the Government anything, like the majority of those who have sold out since the board was established, they will be men who have other occupations to fall back upon, and, tiring of farming, will take a favorable opportunity to sell out, square with the board, and turn to something else.

Reciprocity.

Hon. J. A. Robb, Canadian Minister of Trade and Commerce, has successfully completed preliminary negotiations with the Commonwealth Tariff Board for reciprocal customs arrangements between Australia and Canada.

Bound, Gagged and Robbed.

MONTREAL, Jan. 1.—Three men on Friday bound Henri Lecuyer, proprietor of a box lunch, in his office with ropes, gagged him with a dirty handkerchief, and robbed the till. The business had just changed hands, and the robbers were not rewarded with much money.

Against Death Penalty.

MONTREAL, Jan. 1.—Legislation for the abolition of the capital penalty during the forthcoming Federal session will be asked by the Canadian Prisoners' Welfare Association, and many of its supporters.

A QUAINT OLD CITIZEN

HE HAS A FARM INSIDE TORONTO'S CITY LIMITS.

John McArthur Collects Relics of the Past and He Has Developed Large Swarms of Bees That, According to Him, Are Quite Stingless.

The Don Valley is not generally considered a choice residential section of Toronto. The name is mostly associated with the odors of reodorizing works, soap factories, tanneries and sooty brick yards. It is the same with this spot when compared as a pleasure resort. The Humber has far outstripped the Don. Few ever think of exploring the beauties of the Don from a canoe; its tranquility is broken only by the youthful visitors to its "swimmin' holes" and the call of busy locomotives.

But a century and a quarter ago it was different with this Don of ours. The Governor resided in its valley, Castle Frank, his official residence looked proudly out on its 1,675 pine companions and was master of all the beauty in sight. Then came the spoiling hand of man and in the flight of time the residential qualities of the Don valley have been at a lower discount than the Russian rouble; apparently no one wants them, even at fifteen cents a ton.

One citizen, however, has found the Don Valley a suitable place of abode. For more than forty years he has sat upon his front doorstep when the day of toil was over and witnessed the beauties of this place when the smoke from his pipe curled upwards. And when he says curled he means curled and Davis it out as "kurrrrrrrrled," for he is not only Scottish Scotch but comes from Aberdeen. John McArthur is his name and he lives in the yellow red frame house in the middle of the Bloor street viaduct. Home-going citizens at 5.30 may have seen him raking the hay in the last hay field within the city limits, or fetching his cattle in some field from which he has removed a part of the crop.

He has many things to present a visitor in addition to the smiling face that looks out from a memory of over eighty years as an acquaintance with many worthy men of the past. Historian, antiquarian, philosopher and naturalist are but a few of the interesting suffixes that might be attached to his name.

He has seen many famous buildings raised in the city and has more than once rescued some trophy that would link the silent past to the teeming present. He has early Canadian bottles from the Red Lion Hotel. He has an immense magnifying bowl that was cut from a single knot by Jacob Ashbridge and he has the immense iron hinges from the gates of Castle Frank, which were torn down and closed to Governor Simcoe and his vice-regal party as long ago as 1795. He has geological wonders that he has discovered near his house and, last but not least, a great race of fifty hives of "stingless" bees that he has developed himself and which incidentally present him with ten thousand pounds of honey every summer; and all gathered from the flowers that grow below the Bloor street viaduct. He is also credited with being responsible for the introduction of sweet clover to this country and hopes in the immediate future to present agricultural science with a plant that will bloom twice yearly.

The bottles which he treasures were removed from the walls of the great bar and ballroom of the old Red Lion Hotel. They are valuable for very early local work and had been embedded into the plaster and timber with a view of absorbing and echo resulting from the revelry and merriment. They are of a deep green-ish tinge and very crudely blown.

The great punch bowl is turned from a huge knot of curly maple and was made for the personal use of the original owner of the district surrounding Ashbridge's Bay, Jacob Ashbridge. It is about twenty inches across and held together at the top by a thin iron hoop. Mr. McArthur may some day have it polished and presented with his other relics, to some Toronto historical society.

The great iron hinges from Castle Frank are the best discovery he has made in the Don Valley. Castle Frank was built in 1796 and remained until the spring of 1829, when it was burned to the ground. The great depression that marked its sight was visible until recently. Even as late as fifteen years ago it was possible to recover heavy hand-made iron nails by digging a few inches into the soil. The gates and doors were very massive, of oak, and held together by powerful studding. Mr. McArthur has four of the huge hinges. He secured them by digging in the ruins more than thirty-five years ago.

Amongst the practical observations he has made in the valley the study of bees has been in the foreefront. Bees have been his hobby for almost half a century and in that time he has seen many painful injuries inflicted by these busy little insects. He even relates witnessing horses and dogs stung to death by the angry hordes of honey gatherers.

Some fifteen years ago he decided that a bee without a business end would be a great boon to humanity, and by selection and experimenting with queens he has seen his idea grow into a new race and has received requests from leading biologists in many parts for specimens of his wonders. Mr. McArthur will remove a swarming comb from a hive and play with it like a Chinese chef handling a cold frying pan in an argument over a dime. Even the dog does not bother to brush them off when they light upon his nose.

Mr. McArthur is the father of Bill McArthur, generally regarded as the greatest lacrosse goal-keeper developed in Ontario in the past generation.

Feed Situation In Alberta.

The feed situation throughout Alberta, according to present indications, will not be as serious this winter as was anticipated earlier in the season. Reports from most districts indicate that, while there are no large amounts of feed available, with a normal winter and careful feeding there should be sufficient hay for all requirements, and it will not be necessary to ship in feed from other provinces.

A splendid grass crop is reported in southern Sas[illegible] this season.

Historical Society Lecture Friday Night.

People frequently remark that they would like to live in a city because they would have the privilege of attending such good lectures. No one in Napanee can be heard to honestly express such a wish as the Historical Society each year provides a free series of excellent addresses from the very best talent available. Many citizens have taken advantage of them, but there are many others who have not given the Society the encouragement it deserves. Prof. Alexander, a talanted English scholar, for many years a Professor in a University in Sweden, will lecture on Friday night. The subject of his address will probably be on Sweden, but no matter what the subject it will be worth hearing and you can't afford to miss it.

The Narcotic Drug Evil.

The Opium and Narcotic Drugs Act was amended at the last session of the Federal Government, making its enforcement easier. Penalties for the infraction of this Act were increased to seven years, and in case of giving drugs to minors adding whipping at the discretion of the Magistrate. In the case of aliens convicted for selling drugs, deportation after jail sentence is served. The drug habit is not the result of prohibition as many of our people are falsely led to believe, as the following statistics show : Convictions for the illicit sale of drugs in Canada for 1921, as reported by Dr. Beland, on May 15th, 1922, are as follows : Ontario 66, New Brunswick 8, Manitoba 15, Prince Edward Island 0. A total of 89, of which 52 are in Quebec and British Columbia. Every temperance worker should have a copy of "The Black Candle" by Mrs. Magistrate Murphy, of Edmonton. This will be for sale shortly and gives a vivid picture of the narcotic drug evil.

A National Institution.

A journal that for over fifty years has grown in public esteem until it has acquired the largest number of readers of any journal in the country in which it is published may without exaggeration be said to have grown into a national institution. By the testimony of its readers, by the testimony of the press of Canada, by the testimony of the vast numbers of the thinking population and by the admission of capable journalists and other onlookers in other countries, The Family Herald of Montreal, based on an enormous army of readers, on its independence and on its devotion to the welfare of the country has come to be regarded as one of the National assets of the Dominion. For the year 1923 the publishers of The Family Herald and Weekly Star promise their readers better value than ever in the past, with more valued contributors and more resources in all departments. The plans involve heavy outlay for new features, but the subscription price will remain at $2.00 per year, the extra expenditure being undertaken in absolute faith, upheld by the confidence and practical cooperation of more than half a million readers. The New Year has opened with a rush of subscriptions that has smashed all previous records. Judging by the stacks of subscription orders that at times have threatened to choke the great Montreal Post Office, it would appear that half of Canada had selected the Family Herald and Weekly Star as the best all round journal for 1923.

Don't Overlook this, Please Read It Carefully.

I feel very proud to be able to announce to you that I have contracted for what I consider one of the finest pictures of the year. A Hodkinson Selected, Picture made by Hugo Ballin, from that wonderful classic, "Jane Eyre." It has been heralded as Hugo Ballin's greatest achievement and when one considers that Hugo Ballin is a director of extraordinary ability, you can readily understand why I am enthusiastic to have you see his latest production. With Mabel Ballin in the leading role of "Jane Eyre" and Norman Trevor as "Mr. Rochester," the charm and pathos surrounding these two characters are performed with the skill that makes Mabel Ballin and Norman Trevor stars of the first rank. It is an exceptional picture and we do not want any of our patrons to miss it when it is shown at the Strand Theatre next Friday and Saturday.

WHAT YOU WILL SEE.

Beautiful, rolling English countryside and picturesque estates.

A tally-ho journey with all the old time romance that tradition has so strongly painted.

The frequent attempts of a demented wife to set fire to Rochester Hall.

How Jane Eyre is saved from marrying a man who already has a wife.

A cynic whose heart is softened and made glad.

How a man loses his sight and regains it ; loses the girl that he loves and finds her again.

What happens when Jane Eyre is about to marry the missionary who has given her a home.

HELP HELPLESS BLIND BABES

A Dominion Charter, without stock subscription, was recently obtained for the establishment in the city of Ottawa, of a Home, Nursery, Hospital and Kindergarten, for the blind under six years of age, free to all from any Province in the Dominion. So far nothing has been done for those poor unfortunates. According to reports received from the various Provincial authorities there are at present nearly 250 in the Dominion. The late Sir Arthur Pearson, before his death, claimed that "Sunshine Home," at Chorley Wood, England, was "the only home in the Empire for blind babies." It is hoped shortly to have the SECOND in Canada. To this end money is urgently required. Help us with your generous gift. "Lest we forget ; Do it now !" Cheques should be made payable to the Canadian Blind Babies Home Association. Remittances will be promptly acknowledged.

Obituary.

Minnie Etta Vanalstine was born on the present Howe farm on the Palace Road, in Ernestown, Aug. 1st, 1874. On March 30th, 1901, she was married to John Ferguson Vankoughnett, by the Rev. Wm. Limbert, and lived for several years on the farm where she was born. Eight years ago she removed with her husband from Richmond township to Centre street, where they lived until after two years of declining health, she passed from earth on Dec. 29th. On Sunday, Dec. 31st, after a service at the home, conducted by Rev. A. J. Terrill, her remains were conveyed to Riverside cemetery. Mrs. Vankoughnett became consciously a christian during a revival service on the Selby circuit conducted by Revs. F. B. Stratton and J. M. Wiyte and was ever of a patient, cheerful and hopeful disposition. She gladly assisted every worthy undertaking and held a wise scale of values. Her help was especially given to the Mission Band and to her Sunday School class in Grace Church. The interests of her church were her interests to the last. She is survived by her husband, John F. Vankoughnett, and two daughters, Laura and Edna, and one son, George, by her sister, Emma, of Napanee, her brother, Charles, of Richmond, and by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Vanalstine, of Centre street, Napanee.

CATARRHAL DEAFNESS

is greatly relieved by constitutional treatment. HALL'S CATARRH MEDICINE is a constitutional remedy. Catarrhal Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result. Unless the inflammation can be reduced, your hearing may be destroyed forever. HALL'S CATARRH MEDICINE acts through the blood on the mucous surfaces of the system, thus reducing the inflammation and assisting Nature in restoring normal conditions.

Indian Customs and Legends

When the white man came to Canada nearly four centuries ago, the Indians he first met with were members of the great Algonquin stock, which stretched in a wide sweep from the Gulf of St. Lawrence to the foot of the Rockies. The Crees, with their three sub-divisions, Plain Crees, Wood Crees, and Swampies, belonged to this parent stock, the Plain and Wood Crees making their home in Saskatchewan, while the Swampies were found chiefly in Manitoba. The Blackfoot Confederacy consisted of four tribes, Blackfeet, Bloods, Piegans and Gros Ventres, and though all were of Algonquin origin, warfare raged continually between them and the Crees.

Yet the Indian did not wholly scorn the arts of peace, and all the tribes had lifted themselves more or less above primitive barbarism. Hunting and trapping formed their main occupations, animal food being their chief means of sustenance.

"Whenever food was plentiful, feasts of a social or religious character were very common. Every guest brought with him a dish and knife. When the food had been divided, the host would light his pipe, draw a few whiffs himself, and present the stem towards the sun, the earth and the fire. The pipe was then presented successively to each person present, a small quantity of food was cast on the fire as an offering, and the feast began. It was considered an evidence of appreciation and good breeding to devour one's portion with the utmost rapidity."

Life within the tepee was marked by the greatest freedom. Children were rarely punished, and never whipped. The women were drudges, but willing ones, and at home the fierce warrior threw off his grave demeanor and became cheerful and talkative. Trusted by those around him, he allowed his affections to have full play, and he would while away the time by making jokes and telling stories.

In public, he was another being. Dignified and haughty, he disdained to smile, and when he spoke it was to utter weighty words of wisdom. When an Indian chief rose to speak in council it was with the splendid, fearless bearing of one who knows no will save his own. He was never at a loss for a word, and his gift of natural eloquence was enhanced by a mastery of gesticulation that was nothing less than superb.

It was in the art of story telling that the Red Man's genius is most clearly revealed. Often on winter nights, while a pot of buffalo meat sizzled over the fire and the long-stemmed pipe passed from hand to hand, some old man of the tribe would begin a tale of adventure, and as he acted it out in pantomime, his listeners would sit entranced, seeing the sights and hearing the sounds that he so vividly described. Tales of struggles almost superhuman, tales of endurance, of perilous adventure with beast and foe, of distant excursions into the enemy's country—these stories proved as attractive to the children of the forest and plain as the moving-picture to the white children of to-day.

This is the story as heard by the writer from the lips of an Indian, twenty years ago:

"Once upon a time, Wesakachue was tormented by a Wendigo, an evil spirit who pursued him night and day. He ran through the forest calling upon his animal friends for help. The ermine, a little creature with a black skin, hid in a tree, and as the Wendigo passed, leaped into his throat and ate his wicked heart out. To show his deep gratitude, Wesakachue returned to the spot, and taking the ermine in the palm of his hand, he stroked its fur with the other. When, with a last caress, he set the little creature down, lo, the color was white, all except the tip of the tail, which the hero's fingers had failed to touch."

Childish stories, you say? Yes, but we must remember that when white men first reached the shores of this continent, the Indians were just emerging from the stone age in their social development, and that mentally and morally they are still a race of children. Their cruelties and the faults, improvidence and unsteadiness, are the faults of childhood, which will, no doubt, be outgrown. We must be patient with them, for they are the wards of the nation.

In the Great War, Government statistics show that more than 3,500 Canadian Indians joined the colors. They made excellent soldiers, and not a few of them distinguished themselves as sharpshooters and scouts. Private Semia walked into action on a hundred miles in order to enlist, and John Campbell made a journey of nearly 3,000 miles by trail, canoe and steamship, before he finally donned khaki. These examples serve to show that the young men, at least, are ready to respond to the call of a newer age.

And what of the "old men"? Their lot is a sad one, and can only be fully understood by such as the writer of the following words, himself an Indian and a college graduate: "Poor, inoffensive old men, very few are now left to tell their tale of the winter lodges. They live not in the present; they look not to the future; and they are not listened to with the same reverence as was shown to men of their age long ago. As we tenderly lay our old men into the ground, we must bury also our old outlook on life and resolutely turn to the future with its changed conditions. We must seek to attain that same proficiency our forefathers had in their day and work, in this new sphere that is ours in this land to-day."—W. Everard Edmonds.

Road Reasons.

The automobile is doing wonderful things for the improvement of roads in this country, particularly the main roads.

But did you ever think to inquire why do the main roads pursue the routes they do? Why were those particular routes adopted, often twisting and turning as they pass over hills and valleys?

The answer is that they follow ancient Indian trails, which in their twists and turns pursued the lines of least resistance. Those lines remain unaltered to-day, and so the main road routes do not change and never will change.

WIRELESS AND CROOKS.

Great Invention Has Been an Aid to Justice.

A sharp, cold wind blew up the St Lawrence river from the east, and with it came the fog from the Atlantic. Four masts and a funnel loomed up indistinctly, away out on the waters where, a few minutes before, sunshine had held sway.

From the shadow of the wharf at Father Point a skiff shot out and lost itself in the mist. The dismal horn of the steamer hooted, and the bell from the lighthouse buoy sent out its warning message.

In the skiff four sailors—peajacketed, brass-buttoned, visor-capped officers of the pilot service—rowed with grim determination.

On the steamer Montrose, five or six miles down the river, a nervous, careworn passenger paced the deck. "Half speed!" rang the bells from the bridge.

"What are we doing now?" inquired the passenger of Dr. Stewart, the ship's surgeon.

"This is Father Point, Mr. Robinson, and we take the pilot aboard here," replied the doctor. "You can see the boat coming out to meet us —yes, over there!"

"There seems to be a good many pilots in the boat, doctor," remarked "Mr. Robinson." And as he scanned the approaching craft there was evident anxiety stamped on his face.

"Yes," replied Dr. Stewart; "there are four."

"Stop!" clanged the bell from the bridge to the engine-room. The men in the skiff rested on their oars, a rope uncoiled neatly, and the little craft was drawn alongside the larger vessel.

A few seconds later Inspector Dew, of detective fame, and his companions stood on the deck of the Montrose.

The little party stood chatting with the captain of the Montrose. Dr. Stewart and "Robinson" were walking up and down the deck. Inspector Dew glanced sharply at "Robinson." Yes, there was no mistake; he was his man.

Quietly the inspector went up to "Robinson."

"I want to see you for a moment below," he said, then, turning to Chief Constable McCarthy, who had remained behind, he said, "That's the man."

"I arrest you in the name of the king," said McCarthy to "Robinson," "as one of my prisoner. Anything you say will be taken down in writing and used in evidence against you."

Dr. Pritchard, the murderer of his second wife, was an arrested man.

A few minutes later a woman's scream from below told that Miss Le Neve, still in her disguise as "Mr. Robinson's" son, had also been discovered and arrested.

These arrests had been brought about by wireless, says a writer in Popular Wireless. Two hours out from Antwerp, Captain Kendall had had his suspicions aroused that three passengers on his ship he numbered the wanted Dr. Crippen and Miss Le Neve. He made astute investigations, and two days later was so sure that he was right that he wirelessed to his owners.

They communicated with Inspector Dew at Scotland Yard detective rushed off to Liverpool to catch the next boat to Canada. It happened to be the Laurentic, and landed at Quebec in Canada just before the Montrose arrived.

On the morning of the arrest the following wireless was sent out from Captain Kendall of the Montrose: "Crippen is having breakfast. Suspects nothing. Your instructions carried out to letter. Le Neve not out yet.—Kendall."

Captain Kendall told Dew afterwards: "Crippen would often walk on deck and look at the wireless aerial and listen to the cracking electric spark as messages were sent out by the Marconi operator. Once he remarked, 'What a wonderful invention!'"

That is the story of the first arrest ever made by wireless. That was twelve years ago, but it gives a hint of the possibilities of using wireless as an aid to the apprehension of criminals.

Motors In Canada.

Returns compiled by the Canadian Department of Customs indicate a 600 per cent. increase of motor traffic into Canada, automobiles entering Canada for touring purposes during the last calendar year totalled 417,285, compared with 93,000 for the previous calendar year.

Of the total number of cars registered in the last calendar year, 615,074 remained in the Dominion for less than one month and 2,211 for more than one but less than six months. The Parks Branch of the Department of the Interior has also calculated that this motor traffic represents an expenditure in Canada of more than $50,000,000, which is estimated by the same authority that on a basis of 5 per cent. "improved roads are worth over two billion dollars, without taking into account the service they render Canadians themselves."

The Parks Branch estimate of expenditure in Canada by motor tourists is based on a stay of seven days for the larger number of cars and thirty days for the smaller number, while the daily expenditure for the former is put at $25 and $20 for the latter.

Motor registrations in the different provinces were as follows: Nova Scotia, 223; Prince Edward Island, 22; New Brunswick, 1,826; Quebec, 43,264; Ontario, 64,252; Manitoba, 3,080; Saskatchewan, 427; Alberta, 363; British Columbia, 25,967.

CANADIAN CITY NAMES

MANY OF THEM RECALL EVENTS OF HISTORY.

Ottawa Began With a Much More Prosaic Name Than It Now Possesses—There Are Many Indications of Indian Influence In All Parts of the Country and They Always Add Beautiful Words to the List.

A report by the Geographic Board of Canada compiled by Mr. R. Douglas, M.A., secretary of the Board, on "The Meaning of Canadian Place Names," has recently been published; only a few of the better-known places will be mentioned here, and of these the capital city of Ottawa will be of particular interest. The settlement came into existence as Bytown in 1827—after Col. By, the engineer of the Rideau Canal—and was renamed Ottawa in 1855 on its incorporation as a city. The new name, adopted from that of the mighty stream on which it stands, commemorates an Indian tribe living in the early part of the seventeenth century on Manitoulin Island, Georgian Bay. The Ottawas, whose name comes from "adawe"—to trade—were noted as inter-tribal traders and barterers. They claimed exclusive control of the Ottawa river; which they reached by way of Lake Nipissing—a route which once again become an important channel, though the St. Lawrence-Great Lakes scheme still commands great favor in both Canadian and United States engineering circles—and, says the Jesuit Relation for 1667, it was for this reason that, although very different in nationality, those who went to the French to trade bore the name Ottawa, under whose auspices the journey was undertaken.

Calgary, was so named in 1876 by Col. James Farquharson Macleod, of the Royal Northwest Mounted Police, the word being the name of the ancestral estate of his father's family, the Macleods, on the island of Mull, Scotland. Calgary is a Gaelic word the meaning of which is in dispute, but which is believed to be "running water," a description doubtless suggested in part by the Bow river, on the high banks of which the police fort in that district was erected.

Lethbridge, Alberta, was named after William Lethbridge, the first president of Northwest Coal & Navigation Co., and a partner in the well-known firm of W. H. Smith & Son, booksellers, of London, Eng. Medicine Hat is a translation of the Blackfoot Indian name of the place, Saamis, meaning "head-dress of a medicine man," but the true origin of the name—in spite of numerous alternative explanations of considerable interest—remains uncertain.

The Spanish Admiralty Islands, Ireland, is a reminder of the Spanish occupation in the eighteenth century. Lieut. Francisco Eliza naming the place after Don Pedro Alberni, the officer in command of the soldiers taking part in the expedition sent by the Viceroy of Mexico in 1790.

Vancouver Island was named from that Capt. George Vancouver, who in the latter part of the eighteenth century had explored and named Burrard Inlet.

Winnipeg is Indian for muddy water, a name applied to Lake Winnipeg, which is turbid after a storm.

Halifax, N. S., was founded in 1749, at the expense of the Imperial Government, and was named not after the Marquis of Halifax, but after George Montague Dunk, second Earl of Halifax, the first Lord Commissioner. The Indian name for the actual site of the city—Gwoonatook (White Pine forest)—was very wisely dropped in favor of a more easily pronounced designation.

Kitchener was renamed in 1916, being earlier known as Berlin, the city having been founded by Germans from Pennsylvania.

Toronto is an Indian name originally applied to Lake Simcoe, the name being extended at an early date through the Severn river and even to the whole of Georgian Bay. The meaning of the word is disputed.

Lachine, Quebec, dates from 1669. The name is said to be derived from a Montreal marriage registers for Jan. 2, 1673, refer to the marriage of a "habitant of La Chine."

Montreal, of course, takes its name from the hill at whose base it lies, named Mont Royal by Jacques Cartier in 1535; and the Indian word "Quebec" quite appropriately signifies "the river narrows here."

Moose Jaw takes its name from Moose Jaw Creek, which, it is calculated that this motor traffic represents an expenditure in Canada of more than $50,000,000, which is estimated by the same authority that on a basis of 5 per cent. "improved roads are worth over two billion dollars, without taking into account the service they render Canadians themselves."

"Fruit-a-tives" Restored Him to Health

159 AVENUE PIUS IX., MONTREAL

"For three years, I was a terrible sufferer from Dyspepsia and my general health was very bad. I consulted a physician and took his medicine but I did not improve; and finally he told me that I could not be cured.

At this time, a friend advised me to try "Fruit-a-tives". After taking two boxes, I was greatly relieved; and this fruit medicine made me completely well. My digestion and general health are now splendid".

History Repeats Itself.

History has queer ways of repeating itself, and one of the most interesting recent instances is the foundering of the steamer City of Dresden near Port Rowan, in Lake Erie, a few weeks ago, with the loss of all but one of the crew by a woman from a nearby farm. Little has been said about Mrs. Rockefeller beyond the statement that she was the wife of a neighboring farmer, and that she "ventured out into the surf, and by dint of daring and great effort managed to drag the helpless and exhausted men to shore." One man, Peregrine McQueen, who was handicapped by a wooden leg, was lost in the waves. As the vessel began to break up the men visitors to the scene were busy salvaging whiskey, of which 500 cases were on board.

Yes, there was no mistake; he was his man.

Quietly the inspector went up to "Robinson."

"I want to see you for a moment below," he said, then, turning to Chief Constable McCarthy, who had remained behind, he said, "That's the man."

"I arrest you in the name of the king," said McCarthy to "Robinson," "as one of my prisoner. Anything you say will be taken down in writing and used in evidence against you."

Dr. Pritchard, the murderer of his second wife, was an arrested man.

A few minutes later a woman's scream from below told that Miss Le Neve, still in her disguise as "Mr. Robinson's" son, had also been discovered and arrested.

These arrests had been brought about by wireless, says a writer in Popular Wireless. Two hours out from Antwerp, Captain Kendall had had his suspicions aroused that three passengers on his ship he numbered the wanted Dr. Crippen and Miss Le Neve. He made astute investigations, and two days later was so sure that he was right that he wirelessed to his owners.

They communicated with Inspector Dew at Scotland Yard detective rushed off to Liverpool to catch the next boat to Canada. It happened to be the Laurentic, and landed at Quebec in Canada just before the Montrose arrived.

On the morning of the arrest the following wireless was sent out from Captain Kendall of the Montrose: "Crippen is having breakfast. Suspects nothing. Your instructions carried out to letter. Le Neve not out yet.—Kendall."

Captain Kendall told Dew afterwards: "Crippen would often walk on deck and look at the wireless aerial and listen to the cracking electric spark as messages were sent out by the Marconi operator. Once he remarked, 'What a wonderful invention!'"

That is the story of the first arrest ever made by wireless. That was twelve years ago, but it gives a hint of the possibilities of using wireless as an aid to the apprehension of criminals.

Imperial Act Affects Canada

In the passing of the Imperial Migration Act, the foundation for a great policy of migration and settlement has been laid. It is a short Act — covering only one side of a page—and if it is administered in a statesmanlike way it will have far reaching effect upon the development of the Empire. Unfortunately, and as a result of the present shortage of money, the sum to be devoted annually to putting the act into operation is altogether inadequate. But as time goes on, the grant undoubtedly will be increased and it is far sounder to embark on a great new movement like that of organized settlement on a moderate rather than on a large scale.

It is a huge task to guide the flow of population in an Empire the size of ours, and it is a task of great use so to guide that flow of population that each citizen shall be placed where he is only most wanted, and settled under conditions best calculated to secure his success. That is what organized migration and settlement means.

And it is even more important that there should be a strong public opinion to insist upon this dual principle being kept in view and being handled in a scientific and statesmanlike way.

In dealing with the problem of guiding the flow of population within the Empire there is one fundamental fact which should never be lost sight of; it is this:

The proportion of people of white race living in our towns is altogether too high, while on the other hand, the proportion of those living in the country is too low to secure the proper development of our vast areas of land or to maintain our social stability. In no other great country do the town dwellers so greatly out-number the dwellers in the rural areas.

In the United Kingdom eighty per cent. of the population must be classed as urban, in the Dominion—they consist still in the agricultural stage of their development (i.e. where the agricultural industry is by far the greatest industry) the proportion is fifty, fifty. Every nation naturally wishes to develop its own manufactures, but if the development is artificial the effort is uneconomic. The products of the factory are secondary production, the produce of the soil is primary production. The prosperity of the nation in the long run depends upon primary production, and if the latter is wisely fostered the former will look after itself.

To emphasize still further the disastrous shortage of rural population, it may be stated that the agricultural population of white race (that is all men, women and children living on and by the land) in the British Isles is only about one-fifth to one-half million. To bring clearly into relief the inadequacy of this population to cope with the vast areas of land it has to cultivate and feed, it is only necessary to point out that the agricultural population of France is over eighteen millions. Yet the area of France is only one-seventieth that of the British Empire. A right reading of these facts make two points abundantly clear.

1. That all effort of Governments and private enterprise must be concentrated on increasing the agricultural population in the Empire.

2. That in the effort to increase the agricultural population, every care must be taken to settle the new settlers on the land under the best possible conditions. The object being to enable the new settler to become a contented and successful producer of primary wealth in the shortest possible time.

If he is not successful and contented, he invariably leaves the country and drifts into the town, and too often becomes a dangerous, because disappointed, citizen.

Now the system of settlement, beyond all dispute, under which the new settler most rapidly becomes a contented and successful producer of new wealth, is the Group or Block System of Settlement. Unfortunately, this system is little understood or comparatively little developed within the Empire — wherever it has been developed the result is the same — the rapid growth of a prosperous community. It is unfortur ate that in Canada the idea of group settlement is confused with that of "community settlement" (Doukhobors and Mennonites for instance, and is, therefore, regarded somewhat unfavorably. Or, again, group settlement is adversely criticised because one or two experiments, under unsuitable soil and climatic conditions, have been made and have failed.

Public money is being advanced to create and develop land settlement. The passing of the Land Act of California Settlement Act is one of the finest statements of wise policy in regard to the use of public funds that ever appeared upon the statute book.

It is true that, in the first instance, organized settlement is more costly than unorganized, but judged by results it is far more economic. And once the nucleus of an organized settlement is established—say a group of 300 or 400 settlers—then it is no more costly to assist new settlers to take farms in that neighborhood than it is to place them on the land as isolated individuals.

Training Their Young.

Do animals punish their young? Yes, practically every animal that man has had under close observation has been seen to punish its young. The correction is always physical, and in almost every case administered by the mother.

Some animals pretend to bite their babies, others cuff or kick them. Whether, however, this "punishment" has the same intention as human correction seems at least doubtful. A cat cuffing her kitten may be punishing it in one sense of the word, but she is more probably pushing it out of the way of danger.

To guard their young is an instinct common to all animals, and to satisfy their instinct a cuff may be necessary.

SUMMER COMPLEXIONS.

Causes of the Fashionable Hot Weather Tan.

Tan is the fashionable summer shade for the complexion. It is even appropriate for autumn, as a reminiscence of summer. Summer girls by myriads will carry it back home with them, especially from the seashore. They will be envied by others of their sex who do not tan, but burn. A red skin, perhaps with blisters, is the reverse of becoming.

But why the difference? What is the reason that some women burn while others tan?

To answer that question, it is necessary first to explain what tan is. Your skin is not white; it is colorless. The substance that colors it is a pigment, secreted by certain cells in the skin. Sunshine stimulates these cells, causing them to manufacture more of the pigment than usual, and it turns your skin brown.

If, however, you are a blonde—particularly a reddish blonde—your skin has little pigment. It is, in fact, just for that reason that you are a blonde. Your skin manufactures so little pigment to serve as a protection against the sunshine, that the sun burns it. The brunette has a great advantage in this respect. Her skin is richly pigmented, and thereby is protected against the burning effect of sunshine. The only effect it has is to darken her skin still more—in other words, to give her a coat of tan.

Not all blondes burn. There is a type of blonde whose thick skin, well supplied with blood, resists the action of the sun's rays. The red coloring matter in the blood serves as a protection, "stepping down" the chemical rays of the sunshine and turning them into heat rays.

It is not the heat of the sun that burns the skin, but the chemical rays —the rays that have a high-vibration rate. The burning is a chemical effect, and not a result of scorching. The burning may be so severe as to be very painful and cause even serious surface inflammation. People have been known to die of sunburn.

In summer we have in temperate latitudes a tropical climate. At the seashore in that season we have a sunshine so brilliant as to vie with that of the equator. Blondes were never meant to live in the equatorial zone.

Right here, we come to a very interesting point. What is the reason for blondes? How shall we account for their light hair and pale complexions?

It is a matter of latitude. As everybody knows, the blonde races of mankind are northern races, as for example, the Scandinavians. They have light skins and light hair because of non-exposure to the brilliant sun's rays of warmer zones, which produce a protective pigment, meaning a darker complexion.

That skin-pigment is meant by nature for a protection against light rays seems to be proved by the fact that the human complexion becomes darker as the equator is approached. The peoples of southern Europe and southern Asia are dark; those native to equatorial Africa are very black.

Mark well, once more, that what we are the colored people, and that negroes are "discolored." As a matter of fact, the pigment that tints our skins is exactly the same as that which makes the negro brown or black; the difference is merely one of quantity.

If milady tans, and does not burn, she may nevertheless be afraid of freckles. Freckles are collections of sun-pigment, irregularly deposited in spots. Some times the spots run together. The chemical rays of light cause them, usually. Mostly they occur on the part of the body exposed to light—the face, neck and backs of the hands. They are light yellow, or brown, or salmon-color, or sometimes reddish. They are most objectionable in people who have red hair and delicate skins.

The beauty doctor tells the freckled young woman that he can easily remove her freckles. So he can. He applies to her skin a corrosive solution that blisters it, peeling off the epidermis and incidentally the freckles. There is only one trouble. The freckles soon come back, and they are more persistent than ever.

They Both Did Well.

Harold Wrong, formerly of the R.N.W.M.P. in the old days of the Yukon, and afterward connected with some of the large mining interests in that part of the Dominion, in a recent conversation on "Success" backed up his contention that success is a comparative thing, said that for some men it was the ability to keep out of jail while for others it meant a million or more dollars safely tucked away. To illustrate his point he told the following story:

Two young Canadians after serving with credit in the ranks in France, was sent to England to train for a commission. In due time he was promoted to the rank of captain of a lieutenant and, very proud and self-conscious, was parading himself on the front at Seaford.

"In the course of his walk he met an old platoon-mate who rejoiced in the name of Otic. Otic, it appeared, had recently been wounded and after his recovery had been placed on light duty at the depot. He surveyed his old friend, commented favorably on his new uniform and then delivered himself of the following comment. "Well," said Otic "we both done well. Here you are an officer with some six bob per day and everything found. Yes, you done all right; and me, why just the other day they made me assistant to the engineer, with pay."

Prospered in Detroit.

Another Canadian-born American has attained high honor in the United States in the person of James Couzens, Mayor of Detroit and newly appointed Senator.

Mr. Couzens was born in Chatham and as a youth was a newsboy on the trains. Later he was a telegrapher and an employee in a coal office in Detroit. He had not earned large sums of money but had about $2,500 saved up when fortune in the homely form of Henry Ford kneeled at his door. In those days, $2,500 was more important to Ford than perhaps $25,000,000 would be to-day. Couzens believed in Ford and in the future of the motor industry. He invested his $2,500 and secured besides his stock a job as bookkeeper in the Ford Company.

A few years ago when still a comparatively young man, he found that he had all the money he wanted. The stock in his own account and in that of his friends of all further ambition as a money-maker and he sold out his Ford interests. It is rumored that he received $30,000,000 for his original investment of $2,500.

THE VELVET GOWN

One of the Accepted Materials for Afternoon and Evening Dresses; Much Trimming Added.

Black velvet is certainly one of the accepted materials for afternoon and evening dresses, observes a fashion authority in the New York Times. While it is always good during every winter season, this year it is better than ever, and at all of the collections shown by the smart dressmakers there is a preponderance of black velvet, made up in many and original ways. There is not a great deal of trimming added, for the material is honored to the extent of holding the floor by itself. But the fabric is handled in such a way that in itself it manages to take the place of both foundation material and decoration, too. And many of the gowns made from it are positively beautiful in their expression.

It is one of the newer ideas to use silver cloth with black velvet, and usually the silver takes secondary place, while the velvet holds the center of the stage. The silver is used very often for sashes or for the facings of wide bows. It is used over and over again for facings. Silver ribbons and silver flowers are placed at intervals for spots of decoration. And then there are the silver and white embroideries scattered over the surface of black velvet, to give it a light and sparkling appearance.

Dinner gowns of black velvet are particularly lovely, for they have a semi-formal appearance which is most attractive, and they are even better than the full evening dresses, for they can afford to have a good deal more trimming and to be fuller and more graceful in line—that is, graceful with reference to the quality of the fabric.

Black velvet is also extremely good for evening coats and is trimmed with the puffiest and most sumptuous of furs, so that the whole wrap takes on that luxurious quality so to be desired for evening wear.

White velvet is also one of the favorite materials for evening, and sometimes these two are combined in a most effective manner. A frock of black and white velvet has a little, loose jacket of the white and that is embroidered with threads of black and gray and silver in a lacey pattern around the edges of the little coat. There is a fringe of white to make a finish and the costume succeeds in being the most effective of its sort. The wide sleeves are faced in white and the gown manages, chiefly by reason of its contrast, to create a distinctly picturesque appearance.

MRS. BUDGE SO WEAK COULD HARDLY STAND

Tells How Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Restored Her Health

River Desert, Que.—"I used to have a severe pain in my side. I would be unable to walk fast and could not stand for any length of time to do my ironing or washing, but I would have to lie down to get relief from the pain. I had this for about two years, then a friend told me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound as she had had good results. I certainly got good results from it, too, as the last time I had a sore side was last May and I have not had it since. I am also glad of having good nursing for my baby, and I think it is your medicine that helped me in this way."—Mrs. L. V. BUDGE, River Desert, Quebec.

If you are suffering from the tortures of a displacement, irregularities, backache, headaches, nervousness, or a pain in the side, you should lose no time in trying Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Private Text-Book upon "Ailments Peculiar to Women" will be sent you free upon request. Write for it to the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Cobourg, Ontario. This book contains valuable information that every woman should know.

EVOLUTION OF MILADY'S CAPE

Popular Garment Is Embroidered and Fur-Trimmed; Bandings of Contrasting Material.

The French designers are still making capes—a great many of them, in fact. They are embroidered and fur-trimmed. They are lined in lavish ways. They are trimmed with bandings of contrasting material. In fact, they are no longer the simple strips of material that they once were.

But this Parisian sanction of the cape idea decides the fact that wraps of this sort will be worn by those who like them through the winter.

A cape from one of the recent openings has Chinese embroidery all over its surface and is then supplied with a wide collar of fur. Another one has appliqued motifs of chenille making up a design running over its entire surface. Still another one holds its lining as its piece de resistance, for that is a bright yellow against a purple velvet surface. Others of them are lined with furs or marabou, and each one is a distinct law unto itself in the matter of design, although its lines conform so strictly to the laws laid down by a general fashion tendency.

SKATING SEASON DRAWS NEAR

The sweater is sand-colored. The scarf is of camel's hair and the skirt is of wool corduroy in sand, striped in brown to match.

COLLAR GIVES DRESS FINISH

Collars are very interesting this season. Always, collars can make or mar the dress and this season they are decidedly of the "making" variety. And what a chic finish the right collar can give!

The sheerest of fine batistes and linens carry dainty embroidery and lace edges of the narrowest threads in gay colors. Sometimes they are round and sometimes they are slightly elongated over the shoulders. Sometimes they are white to form a contrast with the darker fabric of the frock and sometimes they are ecru, to blend in softly with the deeper tan or brown.

Frills, too, have full sway. They ripple from neck to hem of side fastening frocks and they form soft insets in cuffs which flare slightly at the hand. They appear in batiste and linen and are often, too, of chiffon. Finely plaited chiffon in white is lovely with black velvet or satin.

Among the New Colors.

Green is becoming a popular color in millinery. It is particularly liked in the soft shades of moss or almond green. Rust shades are also popular, working into flame color.

CRAZE FOR THE OLD STYLES

There seems to be a craze for reviving the styles of the Eighteenth and Nineteenth centuries. In hats this is particularly noticeable. The newest chapeaus, the picture sort, are direct copies of some of the luscious hats perched immortally on the heads of Gainsborough and Romney beauties. Once upon a time it was the custom to laugh lightly at the enormous headgear of a Gainsborough belle. Nowadays, however, the garden party hats are almost as large as any which that artist painted.

Coat Dresses.

Coat dresses are heavily braided. This gives the weight such a frock needs. The skirts are usually circular and side panels are almost inevitable.

Oldest Orangeman.

John Sherritt, aged 103, the oldest Orangeman in Canada, died in London recently at the home of his daughter, Mrs. T. A. Wright.

He was born in Ireland and came to Canada 86 years ago. He settled at Blyth, Ont., where he was married, and where he lived for many years. For the past fifteen years he had been a resident of London. He was a member of the Orange Order for 84 years. He is survived by several grandchildren. His wife predeceased him fifteen years ago.

THE SORE SHOULDER

Shoulder Galls Are Developed—Soaking the Collar in Water Helps to Reshape It—Bathe and Dust the Galls—Hessian Fly Control.

(Contributed by Ontario Department of Agriculture, Toronto.)

A collar that does not fit the horse's neck and shoulder perfectly may be the cause of considerable suffering to the animal through soreness, galling, and blistering. Hundreds of horses suffer each year, more especially during the period of warm weather, when the work on the land is pressing.

Poor Collars Cause Shoulder Galls.

Shoulder galls develop largely through the use of collars that do not fit properly, through the draft being too high or too low, through neglect on the part of the driver to keep both collar and shoulder clean. When a teamster develops a blistered heel or a sore toe the necessity of adjustment is fully and painfully apparent to him, so he fusses around and adjusts the boot or his foot to get relief for himself. A humane and thoughtful driver will do the same for his horses; but unfortunately there are many drivers who neglect to give their horses all the attention that a working animal is entitled to. Collars may fit the horse's shoulders in the spring when the animal is in good condition, but the shrinkage of flesh due to the hard work of several months may leave the horse with a collar much too large. The collar that is too large or not of the correct shape is bound to cause trouble. Sore neck, sore shoulders or unnecessary pain that may develop viciousness or other bad habits or reduce the efficiency of the horse, should be avoided.

A Horse's Haul Is Done From the Shoulder.

The work that the horse has to perform is done from the shoulder, so it is very important that extreme care be given to the fitting and adjustment of the collar. The new collar is generally so firm and stiff that it is difficult to mould it to the shape of the horse's neck and shoulder without soaking it in water over night. After soaking a collar of the proper size in three inches of water, face down until well wet, it may be placed on the horse. The hame straps should be adjusted to draw the collar snugly to the neck. The collar in its softened condition will press into shape to suit the horse's shoulder. Be sure of the adjustment of the hames and draft. Work the horse only moderately the first few days while the shoulders are hardening and becoming used to the collar. Frequent airing and bathing to cool the shoulder and remove sweat and dust are very essential in preventing shoulder soreness.

Dealing With Mis-shapen Shoulders.

Horses that have mis-shapen shoulders can only be given relief by having fitted with a collar or collar pad made to suit the requirement of a special case. An hour's work on a collar pad with thread and needle in the hands of a humane teamster will save a faithful horse much pain. If your horse is suffering from shoulder galls, adjust the draft or shape the collar or collar pad so as to remove the pressure of draft from the sore point. The horse's shoulder should be watched during the day when at heavy work, especially during hot weather. Bath with salt water each evening, and treat the galls with a dusting of zinc oxide. If the horse is so fortunate as to be in the hands of a good driver or teamster it is not likely to suffer from shoulder trouble very long. Remember, the horse cannot speak and make complaint; it is up to you who are responsible for the horse's welfare to give the working comfort that a faithful slave is entitled to every day in the week.—L. Stevenson, Sec., Dept. of Agriculture, Toronto.

HESSIAN FLY CONTROL,

Is Found Best Effected by the Late Planting of Fall Wheat.

The late planting of wheat is generally recognized as being the most effective practice in Hessian fly control. Land for wheat should be prepared early, at least six weeks before seeding, in order that a firm seed bed with two inches of loose soil to provide ample covering when the seeding is done. Late in August or early in September narrow strips should be seeded across the field at intervals, these are for the purpose of attracting any Hessian flies that may be present and offering an inducement for egg laying. Between the fifth and tenth of October these egg-catching strips should be ploughed in and the entire field re-worked and seeded. Lands that are in good condition will withstand Hessian fly attacks much better than poor ill-prepared soils, due to the fact that a weakened plant can make good recovery if well nourished. Prepare the land early, fertilize, if possible, and seed as late as you can expect the wheat to make sufficient growth for wintering.—L. Stevenson, Sec., Dept. of Agriculture, Toronto.

Costly House for Poultry.

An extensive and costly house for the poultry does not necessarily mean that the stock kept therein is any better than the average. Very often we find that the owner is more proud of his houses and surroundings than he is of his stock of poultry.

The man who loses his temper and abuses the animals has no right to have live stock under his care.

A garden that produces only one crop and files away half of the growing season does only half of its duty.

FOOD FOR BROOD SOW.

Mineral Mixture Should Be Made Available at All Times.

Strong, healthy pigs and many of them are the climax to a successful breeding season. To attain this desirable result, it is necessary to give careful attention to the sows which are to produce the pigs.

Practical breeders agree that the ration of a pregnant sow must furnish an abundance of bone and muscle building material, but only a moderate amount of fat-forming food. A large variety of feed is not essential to a good ration for brood sows. A little grain with a little tankage and some alfalfa or clover hay will fill the needs of the sow.

When a sow farrows and begins to suckle a litter of pigs, she immediately starts to lose weight. Successful breeders counteract this loss in weight by feeding liberally before farrowing, thus allowing the sow to gain weight gradually until she is ready to farrow. The corn in the ration should be limited sufficiently to prevent the sows from becoming too fat. The aim should be to have mature sows gain about one-fourth pound a day, and younger sows a little more.

Sows can be carried from breeding to farrowing season in satisfactory shape on a daily ration of one-fourth of a pound of tankage, one-half pound of alfalfa meal or alfalfa hay in a rack, and enough grain to keep them gaining gradually without becoming too fat.

Tankage, or some other muscle-building feed, is highly necessary in the ration of a sow that is carrying a litter. The developing unborn pigs require much mineral matter and tissue-building material. Corn or oats does not supply enough of this. Tankage which contains from 50 to 60 per cent. protein, is about the best source of this tissue-building material. Only a small amount of it is necessary, and it has no adverse physiological effects upon the system of the sow. While at present high in price, tankage will still give value received in the ration of the pregnant saw.

A mineral mixture should be made accessible to the sows at all times. Many breeders use a simple mixture of two parts of salt and one part of limestone or wood ashes. A small amount of potassium iodide, one ounce to 20 pounds of the mineral mixture, is a desirable addition to this mixture when fed to pregnant sows. Sows are frequently subject to goitre, or enlarged thyroid. Such sows often farrow weak, halrless pigs. Potassium iodide in the ration corrects this condition. It must be thoroughly mixed with the other minerals.

Clean, warm quarters and a supply of water with the chill taken off are other advisable provisions for the pregnant sow. Supply these, together with a ration of grain, a little tankage and alfalfa, if available, and the sows will arrive at farrowing time in good physical condition, ready to bring forth good-sized litters of strong healthy pigs.

Our Flax Is Good.

During the last few years experiments have been carried on to determine which districts of Canada are suitable for flax fibre culture. These experiments have shown that the fibre obtained from flax grown on the Experimental Farms in the western part of British Columbia, in Ontario, the valley of the St. Lawrence, is first-class in quality, comparing favorably with the best grades of Irish or Belgian fibre. Especially gratifying is the fact that spinning tests have proved that from Canadian fibre can be manufactured the finest linen damasks.

HOCKEY BRIEFS

NAPANEE 7, KINGSTON IRISHMEN 6.

The local fans were given a chance to see their favorites in their new uniforms Tuesday last, when they downed the Kingston Irishmen by a score of 7 to 6.

The game was a fast one from the very start. The locals showed wonderful improvement over their form since their game in Belleville. The workout they had Monday last sure won the game. The old system of individual rushes has been done away with by the locals and now the locals have showed the fans that they can play a combination game from start to finish. The forwards went down the ice time after time and finding the net by good, honest combination.

When they lost the puck they came back with good clean, but heavy back-checking and seldom loosing their man.

Napanee's defence pair played a first-class game and kept their goaler well covered. The forwards are deserving of great credit. Never loosing their heads once, they played a great offensive game into the Irishmen's territory, and in the last period assisted the defense to play a defensive game.

Kingston played a hard game and in the last period they succeeded in landing three goals into the local nets, making it very interesting for everyone during the last eight minutes. In scoring these three goals the Irishmen penetrated the defense that Napanee had placed around their goal.

Kingston—Goal, Logue; defense, Smythe and Angrove; centre, T. Millan; wings, Mitchell and J. Millan; subs., Devlin and Dipingan.

Referee—Mr. F. Brown, of Kingston.

Don't fail to see these teams in their next game at the arena this evening.

The local Collegiate played their first game in their league against Belleville High School, on Wednesday last, losing to the visitors by a score of 6 to 1.

The game was real fast, the locals giving the fans their money's worth. The score does not place the boys in good standing. They played against a well trained team and Napanee would have been defeated by a greater score but for Barrett and Cowle, who played a star game. They checked and rushed and seldom were idle during the game. Mr. Roe, who refereed the game, made the boys play a clean game, catching all the off sides during the game.

The forwards also played good, never once laying down during the game.

Daly and Hudgins were both new goalers for the locals and with practice will show up in the next game.

Belleville High School—Goal, Currie; defense, Hurley and Strand; centre, Arnott; wings, Christie and Buskard; subs, Keer, Leasens and Townsend.

Napanee—Goal, Bill Daly; defense, Barrett and Cowle; centre, H. Perry; wings, Stewart and Wheeler; subs., Gleason, G. Daly, Hudgins and Lucas.

Referee—Mr. Roe.

London Couple are Delighted

"Tanlac has made all the difference in the world in my wife's health and we are both delighted," declared Frank Westlake, valued employee of the Public Works Department of London, Ont., residing at 40 Langarth St.

"About two years ago my wife underwent an operation that left her badly run-down and she simply couldn't get back her strength. Her appetite left her and she couldn't hardly eat enough to keep going. The least exertion would tire her out completely, and her housework was an awful burden. She would lie awake hours at night, too, and morning found her just as tired as when she went to bed. She suffered terrible splitting headaches, her nerves were on edge and she got very little pleasure out of life.

"But three bottles of Tanlac simply put her on her feet again. She can do her housework easily now, the headaches have gone she sleeps soundly and her appetite is a joy to behold. I can't find words to express my gratitude."

Tanlac is for sale by all good druggists.

Over 35-million bottles sold.

Two little English girls were quarreling over the success of their fathers. "My father can preach better than yours, because he is a bishop," said the first.

The second little girl could not answer her back, but suddenly she recovered and said: "Well, anyway, we've got a hen in our yard which lays an egg every day."

"That's nothing," said the bishop's daughter, "my father lays a cornerstone every week."
